

WHY WE NEED A POST GRADUATE PRIMARY CARE PHYSICIAN VS MBBS PRIMARY CARE PHYSICIAN

1. India student graduate from medical college after 12th grade
2. 5 1/ year MBBS youngest in licensed physician compared to most developed countries
3. Most of developed countries license to practice given after a post graduate training.
4. MBBS graduate patient contact hours with patient are less,
5. Responsibility to treat patients is minimal
6. Whereas post graduate two to three years of clinical trainings more contact with patient case more responsibility, post graduate training gives more confident less mistakes in patient care.
7. People comfortable post graduate doctor than MBBS graduate
8. Education in undergrad and post graduate will give basic knowledge for being physician, you need continuous learning all life.
9. Family medicine or any other specialty is lifelong learning process
10. Their society or association give continuous knowledge through their journals, CME practice parameters
11. Family medicine graduate has support of their association The Academy of Family Physicians of India and internationally
12. The Royal College of General Practitioners, The American Academy of Family Physicians was founded in 1947, Founded in 1967, the Society of Teachers of Family Medicine etc,
13. MBBS graduate are at disadvantage has no association to follow and update continuously
14. Specialty association information followed by their members to enhance their knowledge.
15. Ultimate goal is providing high quality safe health to people of India. Family medicine or any other specialty is lifelong learning process